THE NEW WORLD OF LEVERAGING AUDIO BOOKS:
How The Martian went from obscurity to a blockbuster film in less than 3 years
Silver Screen Theater
Podium Publishing’s Audiobook was the first professionally published edition of The Martian, by Andy Weir, which begs the question: What sequence of events led to this book’s massive success?
Today, unlike ever before, Audiobooks are attracting serious interest from Hollywood. Producers and directors are listening to hear what a performance can bring to the written word. This interactive panel discussion will feature those behind the success of The Martian Audiobook:
Andy Weir - Author of The Martian
Aditya Sood - Producer, The Martian/Starring Matt Damon/Twentieth Century Fox
R. C. Bray - Narrator of The Martian Audiobook
James Tonn & Greg Lawrence - Co-Founders of Podium Publishing
Scott Brick - Moderator and Voice Arts® Winning Narrator

11:00 am – 11:50 am
The Evolution of Sound and The Wonders of the Human Voice
Silver Screen Theater
There is no man on the planet more enamored by the power of sound than the amazing Michael Winslow. He is, arguably, the ultimate expert on the capacity of the human voice to produce, manipulate, recreate and replicate sound. Michael is, in a word, a Grandmaster of sound and the human voice. On this infamous day, which will likely break YouTube record, Michael Winslow will take you through a fascinating conversation on the evolution of sound, including a mashup of clips from classic movies and shows that will show you new possibilities for YOUR voice. Then, Michael will bring several audience members to the stage in an exciting game show-styled, interactive sound-fest where volunteers (okay, guinea pigs) will be challenged to produce sound to underscore movie scenes. And, to the delight and amazement of all, Michael will close the seminar with… Well, it’s a surprise dammit! You’ll have to be in the room when it happens. One hint: Jimi Hendrix will be smiling.

11:50 pm – 12:20 pm INTERMISSION

Michael Winslow was born September 6, 1958 to Robert and Verdie Winslow, on Fairchild Air force Base with never a dull moment. The youngest of six brothers. His mom tells stories about when he was young, how he would imitate the airplanes, jet engines, basically anything that made a noise he copied with sounds that came out of his mouth. “Growing up on the Air Force Base made it difficult to have friends, so I created imaginary friend; dogs, cats, trucks, anything that would keep me occupied for the moment” says Michael.

Mr. Michael packed his bags and hitchhiked to Venice Beach where he would be homeless for a short time. He Auditioned for the “Gong Show” hosted by the infamous Chuck Barris and he won a whopping $516.32 that finally got him out of homelessness and allowed him to buy a car, that took him to Los Angeles to all the local comedy clubs. At this point in time, Bud Friedman, believed in him and featured in him in the famous EVENING AT THE IMPROV (known now as the Comedy Improve Clubs).

In1984, Director Hugh Wilson and producer Paul Manslanski spotted his talents and were blown away! They immediately wrote him into the script of the unforgettable “Police Academy I through VII.” As soon as the first movie came out it became an instant success and so did Michael! He then joined Mel Brooks’ “Spaceballs”. This film propelled him into spotlight as a uniquely gifted comedian - a master of vocal gymnastics and the ability to imitate over 1000 sound effects using his voice alone. Whether he is recreating the frenzy of Jimi Hendrix playing the guitar, or the roar of a jet plane, his talent is truly one of a kind.

Joan is the co-creator of That’s Voiceover™ and the Society of Voice Arts and Sciences. She’s a voiceover spokesperson for Neumann Microphones and the author of Secrets of Voice-over Success: Top Voice-Over Actors Reveal How They Did It. She donates all royalties from the sale of the book to the Alzheimer’s Association. Joan is also featured in the following books: Daughters Of Men by Rachel Vassel (2006), Career Clinic by Maureen Anderson (2007), Put Your Dreams First: Handle Your Entertainment Business by Thembisa Mshaka (2009), Signed, Your Student by Holly Holbert (2010) and Dream Reachers II by Betty Dravis (2011). And Joan’s got it goin’ on as a voiceover actor: winning five Telly Awards for her narration and on-camera performances. Joan is also among the cast of narrators, playing 45 female roles in the best-selling audiobook, Those Boys Have All The Fun: The Inside World of ESPN. Other projects include promos for ABC’s “The View”, the Royal Wedding promos on HLN and the TBS campaign for HBO’s Sex And The City series and Sex And The City 2, the movie. Other clients include Grand Theft Auto, CNN, ESPN, Showtime, Nickelodeon, Chase Bank, American Express, NICK at NITE, ABC News, CBS Sports, Lifetime, Lexus and SPIKE TV. Joan has been the announcer for numerous live entertainment venues: The Muse Awards for Women in Television & Communication, Promax/BDA, The Vision Awards, The Moving Image Salutes Will Smith and Julianne Moore and The Matrix Awards. In addition to being a working voiceover actor, Joan maintains a private coaching practice in midtown Manhattan, where she teaches advanced voiceover craft and technique, and offers career guidance for long-term business success. She works with both professional voiceover actors and newcomers, teaches part time at New York University, Western Kentucky University and The Actors Institute (NYC). Joan co-writes a monthly column for Backstage Magazine called Voiceover Exchange.

HEY Voice Over!
this is Web design just for you
ROBERT REDFORD’S “START & RESTART REALISTIC DIALOGUE TRICK.”
There are those times when you will have the power to change words in a voice over project. If you are challenged with making the dialogue more realistic, here’s a trick, which Robert Redford uses in most every movie he’s ever done. A character will start a thought, get a better way of putting it, and go on with the better way of communicating the thought. For example—“Morgan is serving five years for aggravated—he’s in the slammer for busting a guy up bad.”

MONTGOMERY CLIFF’S, “READ IT LIKE A FIRST GRADER” TECHNIQUE.
This is a technique that is attributed to the great stage and film actor, Montgomery Cliff. When he would first read a script, he would read it carefully, word by word, making sure he was not performing. Why? He said that since he didn’t know what was on the pages, he couldn’t make any intelligent choices to realize the scene or story with performance. If he did perform it prematurely, it could very well lead him into choices that didn’t realize the story. This is the kind of work I do alone, and prior to a read with other actors or with the director.

THE PERFECT WORD TRICK.
If I don’t have control of the text or the ability to change words, I will occasionally take time or a pause prior to saying a word (particularly if it’s a strange or complex word) to give the impression that I just thought of it or chose it carefully. It’s rather like paralleling the author’s journey during his or her first draft.
“About two weeks ago, I was talking to my boss about the…”potentiality” of a raise.

THE ONE WAY NEVER TO SLATE.
Dead. By that I mean, without personality. It’s a habit performers get into as they do audition after audition. They sound serious, even bored and have it in their mind that it doesn’t count. In an audition, everything counts from your first fricative. Consider the listener. Someone is listening to dozens, if not hundreds of auditions in a row. The first thing they hear is a performer who doesn’t reveal personality, and perhaps sound bored.

“KILLER DIALECT CATCH PHRASE” TRICK.
There will come a time when you will be asked if you can do a particular accent or dialect, and a director or producer will want you to give them a “taste.” Don’t trot out an improvised sentence or passage. Have a sentence that you know well, which shows off your abilities in the best light and includes many of the sound adjustments and changes you must make to perform the dialect correctly. I refer to these as “Killer Dialect Catch Phrases.” It is best if you make up your own. Here are a couple that work for me.

British: All that glitters is not gold.
Russian: I have to grab little rodent for to ring his neck.

NEVER SWING ON “AND” REMINDER
The habit of connecting two products, services, or general concepts with a conjunctive came from advertising. “It’s delicious, kids love’em AND it’s good for you.” It makes no sense to use valuable emphasis on a conjunctive, AND especially by getting loud for emphasis.

Conjunctive Lines
We can get all the kids, water toys in the car AND the dog. That’s what she said, SO, I guess we’ll have to submit. We don’t make rude noises, NOR two we open our mouths while we chew.

BATS & RATS TECHNIQUE
Give a long tight “Cartoon Kiss” into your open palm. That should generate a high-pitched sound. Wiggle your palm as you do. The perfect bat or rat. What’s the difference between Bat and Rats and a Cartoon Kiss? One’s more fun.

COMMIT TO ONE CHOICE MINDSET
Before you send in two takes for an audition, consider two factors.
1. Which of the performances realizes the story best?
2. When you send in two takes, you are begging for a comparison between the two?
That means someone is in a position to decide one is not as good as the other.

QUIET AND CLOSE AGENDA.
Be on the lookout for any scene or line where you can perform it as if you were in a close-up shot. Actors tend to work as if they were on stage, rather than in film. Just because there is an exclamation mark at the end of the sentence doesn’t mean it has to be loud. Sure, if the line is, “May Day! May Day!” you’ll need to get loud, but many don’t need to be performed with volume.

Quiet and Close Lines
“I’ve told you before, I’m not going to wait!
“Who’s in charge here!”
“Ladies and Gentlemen. May I have you attention.”

DON’T BE IN THE MOMENT TECHNIQUE
This flies in the face of what is taught in acting school, but sometimes people are distracted, doing something in additional to talking to someone. It creates a different sound. Look for moments in scripts, text and copy, where a character is doing something as well as talking to someone.

THE SOUND OF THINKING MIC TECHNIQUE
The convention in voice over for thinking is quiet, as if to oneself. To make it effective, you need to marry your hushed tones (not whispered) with close microphone technique. In text, particularly in books, when a character is thinking, it is in italics. What you do is go from standard mic position, to close mic, which is 2 or three inches from the mic. That way, you will be at the same relative volume as your performance with more volume, farther away, but it will fulfill the convention of thinking.

This is from the audiobook narration world, but I apply it to all mediums. As a performer, you are partners with the text. When a passage in a book, or scene gets provocative or evocative like sensual or grisly passages, back off your expressiveness and attitude toward the material. Why? You want to leave plenty of room for the listener to experience their emotional journey rather than yours.
